Can eating garlic help prevent infection with the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV)?

Garlic is a healthy food that may have some antimicrobial properties. However, there is no evidence from the current outbreak that eating garlic has protected people from the new coronavirus (2019-nCoV).

THE GOVERNMENT will subsidise airlines to bring home UK nationals

Rash said there are still "hundreds of thousands" of UK nationals abroad, despite the foreign office's call last week for all British tourists to come home immediately.

closed their borders to new flights to deal with the spread of the virus, putting many airlines at risk of going under.

Impact Of Covid-19 On The City of London

What we can see

- In the short-term the vast majority of employees are working remotely
- This has been very effective in terms of deliverables
- Remote collaboration tools are task-focussed

What does this mean?

- Managers universally acknowledge the effectiveness of remote working
- Remote working will be an increased feature of the work ecosystem into the future
- Increasing requirement to ensure that office spaces are tech-enabled to enable collaborative work to be delivered effectively

What Will Be The Future Role Of 'The Office'?

- The office will remain a key tool for organisations, providing environments very difficult to replicate remotely:
 - Alignment and development of corporate culture
 - Development of personal bonds and facilitating social interactions
 - Opportunities for learning and development
 - mentoring, unstructured and informal learning
 - Enabling dynamic collaboration, fostering creativity and innovation
 - Increased focus on space flexibility and adaptability

Acceleration Of Existing Trends?

A photograph of a modern city skyline at dusk. The sky is a mix of pink, orange, and blue. Several prominent skyscrapers are visible, including one with a distinctive curved, glass facade. Many windows are lit up, and construction cranes are visible on top of some buildings, indicating ongoing development.
