

Taiwan's Asset Management Hub Enters Its Next Phase

Taiwan is advancing its ambition to become a leading asset management hub in Asia, supported by regulatory reform, growing assets under management, and stronger links with global capital.

Speaking at the Financial Development and Outlook Seminar, President Lai Ching-te highlighted Taiwan's abundant domestic capital and globally competitive industries as key foundations for expanding its financial and asset management capabilities.

As of June 2026, Taiwan's financial sector managed NT$46 trillion in assets, approximately NT$14 trillion more than before the initiative was launched. President Lai noted that the initiative, advanced by the Financial Supervisory Commission (FSC) under Chairperson Dr. Jin-Lung Peng, is now entering its next phase.

The focus ahead is on deepening asset management, strengthening capital markets, and expanding cross-border financial services, alongside further regulatory development to create a more internationally competitive financial environment.

These efforts aim to turn Taiwan's industrial strengths and domestic capital into greater financial capabilities while strengthening connections with global investors and markets.

As Taiwan's leading financial training and research institution, TABF supports this development through financial talent development, international knowledge exchange, and stronger connections with the global financial community.
